March was full of March Madness bets and Oscars Glam

Escalate Fund demonstrated a strategic approach to event prediction, diversifying away from the uncertainties of March Madness, specifically the Auburn vs. Houston game and bets relying on players like Tahaad Pettiford and Johni Broome. Instead, Escalate Fund focused on the seemingly more predictable realm of the Oscars. This focused strategy proved highly successful, with Escalate Fund achieving a perfect 3/3 record in its Oscar predictions.

Capitalizing on information with lower market volatility and greater predictability

In a separate, successful trade, Escalate Fund also demonstrated acumen in predicting political events, specifically regarding statements about Crypto/Bitcoin in a Congressional address. Escalate Fund's prediction that Trump would not mention Crypto/Bitcoin proved accurate. Currently, Escalate Fund holds no shares in this settled market. The outcome of this prediction yielded a final value of $85,975.47, compared to an initial investment of $43,490.46. This resulted in a total profit of $43,490.46 ($$85,975.47 - $43,490.46$).
